

CFP - Call for Papers & Practice

voicesonfilm in association with Irish Screen Studies, Dublin Business School, SAH Journal, Filmbase and Film Ireland will host the 13th Annual Irish Screen Studies Seminar on 12-13 April 2017.

The Irish Screen Studies Seminar provides a unique platform for the presentation of new research and practice by scholars and filmmakers from third-level institutions in Ireland as well as those working on Irish screen-related topics worldwide.

The seminar is aimed at academic researchers and practitioners in film and screen cultures in the broadest sense, touching on audio, film, television, digital media, transmedia, video games, policy and related interdisciplinary activity.

The ISSS actively promotes the exchange of ideas and offers student researchers and practitioners an ideal opportunity to present evolving screen-related research and practice in a constructive and encouraging forum.

To submit an abstract/proposal, please email 250 words and a short bio to voicesonfilm@gmail.com by 3 February 2017.
